MEDIA ADVISORY

The City of Camden Posts Web Pages for Transparency and Accountability for American Recovery and Reinvestment Act ("ARRA") Reporting

Camden, NJ: The Honorable Gwendolyn A. Faison, Mayor of the City of Camden announces the posting of new web pages to report on the City's activities to bring Federal and State American Recovery and Reinvestment Act ("ARRA") economic stimulus resources to the City. Federal Guidelines require the posting of various reports on activities and investments under the ARRA for accountability and transparency. The Mayor stated "the City has added special web pages to our web site to provide the same level of transparency and accountability to persons who want to know what we are doing to access and protect the Federal and State investment of ARRA funds."

According to Mayor Faison, "The ARRA is a huge opportunity to infuse much needed resources for the residents and businesses in the City. For transparency and accountability everyone needs to know what the City is doing to access these resources and manage the Federal and State investments in the City."

To view the new web pages go to the City's web site at www.ci.camden.nj.us and click-on "The Economic Stimulus." Please check these pages on a regular basis for updates on all the activities being undertaken to bring these critical economic resources to Camden.

The web site also provides a way to communicate with the City about the ARRA at StimulusCamden@ci.camden.nj.us. For added convenience the City has established a new phone line 856-757-9033 for communicating interest and concerns in the City's efforts to bring stimulus resources to the City.
