

PROMOTIONS

Promotions into positions which the NJDOP has classified as competitive are made by promotional examination. The City of Camden may make a “provisional” or “temporary” appointment if a position must be filled before the NJDOP publishes a list of persons who passed the examination. The person so appointed must take the promotional examination in order to be considered, along with the other persons interested in the available position.

Among the factors considered in promotions are the candidates’ performance ratings, attendance records, and seniority. Refer to the NJDOP Rules and Regulations for details.
