HORIZON HEALTHY CAMDEN SERIES KICK-OFF AND UNVEILING OF NEW HEALTHY POP-UP AT ROOSEVELT PLAZA PARK

CAMDEN, NJ – Today, Mayor Dana L. Redd announced the Horizon Healthy Camden Series, in front of Camden City Hall. Funded by The Horizon Foundation for New Jersey and supported by Cooper’s Ferry Partnership, the Horizon Healthy Camden Series brings fitness classes, health and wellness education, lunchtime concerts, outdoor movies and family fun nights to Roosevelt Plaza Park. The series, in conjunction with the City’s Connect the Lots and Get Healthy Camden initiatives, is designed to create a healthier Camden by providing families with opportunities for safe, outdoor, active living.

“I commend The Horizon Foundation and all of the partners involved in helping to kick-off the Healthy Camden Series. We recognize that in order to improve quality of life, we must also take a holistic approach to a healthy lifestyle. They simply go hand in hand,” said Mayor Redd. “The City and its partners are committed to transforming Camden’s parks into desirable spaces that provide our residents with the amenities they deserve.”

“The Horizon Foundation is proud to join the City of Camden and Coopers Ferry Partnership in making to make Roosevelt Plaza Park an outdoor hub for physical fitness activities, health and wellness education and entertainment for the entire family,” said Jonathan R. Pearson, Executive Director of The Horizon Foundation for New Jersey. “We support the Horizon Healthy Camden Series at Roosevelt Plaza Park as a unique destination where Camden residents can enhance and recharge their mind, body and spirit.”

The Horizon Foundation has also funded this year’s interactive pop-up installation at Roosevelt Plaza Park. With the pop-up entering its third year, the 2016 pop-up puts a ‘spin’ on healthy living. Park visitors can power the treadle pumps which in turn activate water jets and turn the recycled bike wheels.

This summer the Horizon Healthy Camden series will provide families with fun and engaging opportunities to get healthy together at Roosevelt Plaza Park. The series will offer a wide schedule of events every week. On Tuesdays the series will offer lunchtime concerts, on Wednesdays the series will offer a boot camp exercise class and on Fridays the series will offer outdoor movies and family fun nights.

The Horizon Healthy Camden series is an essential part of both the City of Camden’s Connect the Lots initiative, supported by the Kresge Foundation, and the Get Healthy Camden initiative, supported by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation. These initiatives aim to address health issues and bring vibrant community life back into the city. Cooper’s Ferry Partnership manages both initiatives in partnership with the City of Camden.

The new healthy pop-up that was unveiled today was also funded by The Horizon Foundation for New Jersey. Putting a ‘spin’ on healthy living, the installation allows users to power treadle pumps to activate water jets and turn fountain wheels. The pop-up was designed to uphold the environmental spirit that the park was built on, so the fountain wheels consist of recycled bicycle wheels. The pop-up also inspires healthy living because it is surrounded by an edible herb garden, containing lavender, mint, and lemon balm. The pop-up encourages both sustainable practices and healthy living, making it the perfect new edition.
